About Adilabad District

Adilabad district is a district of Telangana state with its administrative headquarters located at Adilabad town. Long time back during the reign of Qutub Shahis the place was popularly known as Edlabad. Therefore, the original name of the Adilabad was Edlabad. Its original name was derived from a Gond word "Edla" meaning people lives in woods. The name of the place was changed to its present name "Adilabad" during the period of Mohammed Adil Shah, the Islamic ruler of Bijapur. The district was for long not a homogenous unit and most of its parts were ruled by different dynasties during different periods of time namely, the Mauryas, Staavahanas, Vakatakas, Chaludiyas of Badami, Rashtrakutas, Chalukyas of Kalyani, Mughals, Bhonsle Rajes of Nagpur and Asaf Jahis, besides the Gond Rajas of Sirpur and Chanda. Before the year 1956, the area was under the Telugu linguistic state. The place is blessed with the dense forests and river Godavari basin. At present it is a part of the Red Corridor.
